

CONTENTS.

~~~~~

CHAPTER I.

ZANZIBAR.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | PAGE |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Origin of the East Central African Expedition — Mr. Keith Johnston is appointed Leader, and I as Geologist and Naturalist—Our instructions—Voyage out—My Visit to Berberah—Arrival at Zanzibar—Dr. Kirk's Hospitality—Society in Zanzibar—The Climate—Recent Sanitary Improvements — Characteristic Sights—Variety of Races—Residence at the Old Consulate — Reception by the Sultan — Celebrities met—Recreations—Syed Bargash . . . . . | 1    |

CHAPTER II.

PREPARATIONS FOR OUR ENTERPRISE, AND EXCURSION TO USAMBARA.

Our study of Ki-Swahili — Engagement of Chuma— Sketch of the man—Susi and Jacob Wainwright— Selection of Porters — Purchase and Packing of Stores—Common Mistakes in Outfit—We set out for Usambara — Pangani and its Surroundings — A typical African Village—Botanical Character of the Country—Magila and its Mission—Into the Mountains—"The forest primeval"—Native Suspicions—

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | PAGE |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Arboreal Monstrosities—Hendei, its Chief and People—A “Baptism of Fire”—Forest Adventures—Returnto Zanzibar—Getting “Seasoned”—The PricklyHeat—Visit of inquiry to Dar-es-Salaam—Shippingour Caravan—Under Weigh . . . . . | 29   |

CHAPTER III.

DAR-ES-SALAAM TO MKAMBA.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |    |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| East African Coast Scenery—Dar-es-Salaam ; its Historyand Surroundings—Expectations versus Experience—Natural History Notes—The Tropical Twilight—Final Arrangements for the March—The “Characters”of the Caravan—Ready for the Road—Order ofProcession—The Start—First Day’s Journey—Evening Employments—The Waswahili—Crossingthe Mzinga—In Camp ; a Dance of Porters—ADucking—Humours of the men—Our First Sundayon the march—Wazaramo Houses and Fashions—“Casting out Devils” . . . . . | 70 |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|

CHAPTER IV.

MKAMBA TO BEHOBEHO.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Harvest time at Mkamba—Native Fête in our honour—Reconnoitring—A Hippo Hunt and its Results—Preparing for a Desert Journey—Punishment of aPorter—An Affectionate Husband—A MiserableMarch—Desertion of our Guide—The Leaders hors           de combat —An Unfortunate Decision—The Stillnessof Solitude—The Unyamwesi Donkey—Ridingversus Walking—Johnston’s Sufferings—The RiverRufji—A Weary Desert—Sporting Attempts—Snakes—Arrival at Behobebo—Review of theCountry passed—The Wazaramo, their Character andCondition—Burton’s Conclusions examined ; recentAdvancement explained—Improvability of the Negro—Export Trade of Uzaramo . . . . . | 105 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|

CHAPTER V.

TO THE MOUNTAINS.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | PAGE |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Forest and Village of Behobeho—Our Leader fast sinkingA Strange Mountain — Death of Johnston — Myresolve taken—Onward! — Disquieting Rumours—A Perilous Scare—Conference with the Savages—The Wakhutu — Their Degradation and ClimaticDisadvantages—Scenery on the Msegwe—Mgunda—Tribes near Khutu—Khutu House-building—Cuttingour way—A Lifeless Region—The River Ruaha—First Voyage of the “ Agnes ”—Mahenge reached—Baffled by the Porters—Reception at Mkomokero—Examination of the Uranga—Secured for Exhibition—On View—A War Dance—The Mahenge Country,People, Products, and Customs— En route once more—Injured Innocence—Rumours of Carter’s ElephantExpedition—Through the Lowlands. . . . . | 144  |

CHAPTER VI.

THE PLATEAU OF INNER AFRICA.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| First Part of the Campaign over—Mountaineering—ALife and Death Struggle—Charms of MountainScenery—A Terrific Night—The Hunger Ordeal—Heroic Porters—A Race for Supper—The Plateauof Inner Africa—A Stampede—Wahehe Houses—The Country of Uhehe—A Polite Hint—Dress of theWahehe — Punished for our haste — EducationalAttempts — Rebellious Mutterings — A Crisis —Deserted—The Master mastered—Ubena—A Pic-turesque Chaos — Native Superstitions—Detentionat Uhenge — Later History of the Wahehe —Wahehe Customs and Characteristics — GentlemanSavages — Description of the Plateau — A Fête atUhenge—Released—An Intolerable Entertainment |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

|                                                                                                                                                                                                 | PAGE |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| —The Squinting Tribe — Miserable Specimens of Humanity—No Konde Range—Upper Plateau of the Lake Region—Marching in Distress—Nyassa in Sight—A Night Adventure—Headlong Haste—Baptized . . . . . | 199  |

CHAPTER VII.

BETWEEN NYASSA AND TANGANYIKA.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Pupangada — Search for Lost Porters — The People and their Employments—A Discovery in the Camp — Marriage without a Licence— En route for Tanganyika—An Arcadian Scene—Makula's Kindness—Sanitation in Central Africa—A Mistake corrected — Serious Fracas — Leaving the Fleshpots — A Volcanic Region — Delirious — A Word for the Porters—Timidity of the Wakukwe—An Ominous Forecast—The Wanyika—The Highest Point in our Journey—Oiling the Wheels—Stopped by a Petty Chief — Laying a Ghost — Systems of Rationing Caravans—A Pilgrim of Love—Reception by Mlilo — Conflagration in the Camp—Narrow Escapes—Source of Native Iron—Experiences at Sombè's—Tanganyika!—A Proud Moment—Adventure with a Hippo—Sail on the Lake—Retrospective Glances—Geological Notes—The Tribes between the Lakes—History of the Walungu—Walungu Customs . | 260 |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|